

JAN ROTMANS

Speaker of the year 2012 and 2014: Visionair, inspiring scientist who wants to change the whole world in a sustainable world.

Tijdslijn

2010

Book: Transitions to Sustainable Development

2007

startup good charity
Uganda

2004

Professor Erasmus
Univeristy + entrepreneur
DRIFT

1998

Start up of ICIS.

1992

Hoogleraar aan de
Universiteit van Maastricht

Categorie

Business & Management, Energy, Climate & Environment, Science & Education, Economy & Finance

Type

Expert | Thought leader, Scientist

Inzetbaarheid

Keynote speaker, Expert, Breakout session, Master class

Talen

EN, NL

Afkomstig van

The Netherlands

Biografie

Jan Rotmans is an internationally renowned sustainability and transition scientist who is working for more than 25 years with durability and transitions. He not only examines the WHAT (sustainability), but also the HOW (transitions), the way to a sustainable society.

He is a pioneer and visionair in his field, has an international reputation. Jan Rotmans was once the youngest professor in the Netherlands and the first in the Netherlands graduated on climate change. For 2 years he worked at the United Nations in New York, to research the evaluation of global sustainability policy. Has subsequently set up two interdisciplinary research institutes, ICIS Maastricht and Rotterdam DRIFT. As the former director of the National Research Network KSI, he put the transition theory on the map in the Netherlands and in Europe.