

MATTIAS KLUM

One of National Geographic's most dynamic storytellers

Categorie

Energie, Klimaat & Milieu, Wetenschap & Onderwijs

Type

Expert | Thought leader, Bedrijfscoach | Trainer, Mental coach | Spirituele spreker, Wetenschapper

Inzetbaarheid

Keynote spreker, Expert, Workshops, Debat

Talen

EN

Afkomstig van

Sweden

Biografie

Mattias Klum is a photographer, cinematographer and director. In an artistic way that is entirely his own, he describes and portrays animals, plants and natural and cultural settings in the form of articles, books, films, lectures and exhibitions. Since 1997, Mattias has produced multiple articles and thirteen cover stories for National Geographic magazine. He has produced 9 film projects and published 14 books to date, including two with Johan Rockström: The Human Quest: Prospering Within Planetary Boundaries, with a foreword by President Bill Clinton, and Big World Small Planet: Abundance Within Planetary Boundaries.

Mattias has been named a Young Global Leader of the World Economic Forum, awarded an honorary Doctorate in Natural Sciences by Stockholm University, appointed Senior Fellow at the Stockholm Resilience Centre, Fellow at the National Geographic Society and the Linnean Society of London, goodwill ambassador for IUCN and WWF and serves as a member of the Board of Trustees at WWF Sweden.

Mattias Klum and Iris Alexandrov are since fall 2016 working together in their artist duo Alexandrov Klum, where they create artworks and commercial works in thematics connected to environmental issues, anthropogenic trends and mythology. The couple are currently working on projects in Svalbard, Hawaii, Zimbabwe, the Maldives and Sweden.

Mattias lives with his partner and artist colleague Iris Alexandrov outside of Uppsala in Sweden.