Bio Alice Ramsay

Alice Ramsay is former international lawyer who built her career inside courts, governments, tribunals and the United Nations. She understands environments where humanity's most pressing issues are on the table and pressure is real. She pairs that authority with professional performance training and comedy improvisation, giving her unforgettable presence on stage: calm under pressure, fast judgment and genuine human warmth.

Audiences consistently describe Alice's energy as magnetic. She reads power dynamics instantly. She knows when to challenge, when to protect, when to lift energy and when to create stillness. She makes senior leaders feel safe enough to be real and alive to contribute at their best.

As a keynote speaker, Alice positions human connection as performance fuel. Drawing on over 20 years of experience as an international lawyer and communications leader – alongside behavioural science and evidence-based business research – she shows how pressure narrows thinking, weakens collaboration and erodes decision quality. She gives audiences practical ways to restore clarity, strengthen teamwork and think better together when it counts.

Her clients include UN Headquarters New York, Eurojust, the OECD, Elsevier and Roche. As an interviewer, she has been trusted by C-suite leaders from the world's most powerful companies. Most recently she has taken the stage at the UK Emergency Care Summit, JP Paralysis Health Summit, RAIN in Action, TEDxAmsterdamWomen and The Do Lectures.

Event professionals book Alice Ramsay when they want their conference to feel premium, alive and genuinely connected.

Audiences leave time with Alice connected with themselves and each other, equipped to step up their performance.
